

ASCENT - 2008 Winter Workshop

Date: 2/28 thru 3/3
Breckenridge, Colorado

It's a tough job, but someone has to do it!

Waking up some days can be hard. Especially when its 42 degrees, sunny, and the snow conditions are the best in years. That's how lucky the first workshop group was this last weekend when we hosted our Arkansas agent for a 5 day "training" session in Breckenridge, Colorado. Sure it was hard to ski and snowmobile every day. Let alone deal with our friend Mr. Jagermeister, but some how we got through it. We even found some extra time to learn about many of the new products that Ascent is coming out with in the next few months. It was a great experience for everyone involved, and I think we'll have some good stories to talk about for years to come!

Ascent would like to thank everyone involved for taking time out of their busy schedule to spend it with us.

Skiing is not hard, it's all down hill.
